RUP-AC is a set of best practices that guide development teams and enhances the process of continuously improving a product. The RUP-AC guidelines support the development and deployment of architectural products. RUP-AC was created to provide the continuous improvement of AutoCAD by eliminating common technical and project impediments. The RUP-AC framework is built on eight core process groups that are delivered in a sequential fashion. These core process groups are tested and proven in the field in a reliable way. Core Process Groups and features The 8 core process groups of RUP-AC are: Core Concepts and Systems : The foundation for the RUP-AC process.
